

Guram Megrelishvili "Reader's Guide"

Just like the authors, readers also need the audience, especially adults, who want to share their thoughts, emotions, and valuations to other people.

Have you ever considered, why does it happen, that after reading certain books questions and answers emerge in your mind but you are unable to make up your mind and convey in an orderly manner what you felt, what you thought and what you liked or did not like about what you read?